In the "Main Menu" at left on this page, or by scrolling down on it, you will find another 30 papers that relate to the focus of this Journal, which is exploring the spiritual domain of national defense decision-making and leadership in the English-speaking nations.

Call for Papers: I am particularly interested in papers that address the following topics as they relate to defense of the English-speaking nations:

1) How to appropriately integrate one's faith into one's service and leadership in the armed forces and security forces

2) The necessity for commanders and leaders at all levels of our national defense structures to cultivate spiritual knowledge and wisdom concerning the roles of faith in our own defense preparedness, and in the military and security forces of our allies and our enemies

3) How the Judeo-Christian tradition serves as the primary foundation of our nations' ideals, the core values of our military and security forces, and the source of effective character development in military leaders and followers.

Authors are invited to submit either original or previously-published manuscripts for this and future editions. Refer to the information in "About JFW" in the main menu at left, or contact the editor at: jfweditor@faithandwar.org
